ITS FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY.

CELEBRATION OF "THE SPRINGFIELD RE-PUBLICAN."

IT SAYS THAT ITS NEWS SERVICE, SUPPLIED BY THE UNITED PRESS, WAS NEVER SO SATIS-

Daily Republican" to-day observed its fiftieth birth-day by the publication on its new press of a twentytwo-page number, several pages of which are desoled to a history of the growth and progress of the paper and the community in which it has wieldthe paper and the community in which it has wielded for half a century so great an influence. One of the interesting features of this number is an editorial under the caption "Our Superior News Satistic," in which "The Republican" says:

"It is proper to say to the public at this time that The Republican's representations and the same says to the public at this time that TheRepublican's general news service is the best now existence. It elected, having free choice between in existence. If elected, having the rival news associations, to stand by its neighbors and long-time associates in news gathering, the New-England Associated Press, the New-York State Associated Press, the Southern Associated Press (which, by the way, exchanges news with both the rival news organizations), and the United Pressold Associated Press.

'lix pariners are such papers as 'The New-York Herald, Sun, Times and Tribune. The Boston Herald, Globe and Journal, The Philadelphia Ledger and Record and hundreds of others scat-tered all over the country. It is triffing with the ntelligence of the people to assume that these great mapers of the East will be content with anything inferior to the best in the way of news service, and the news that they gather for themselves and their England.

"The Western Associated Press, one of the various sectional bodies originally joined together, broke with its aliles and has since sought to disrupt the other local associations, and in this effort has assumed the name of the Associated Press, which still belongs by right of original possession to all the other associations. The New-England Associated Press which still belongs by right of original possession to all the Press resisted this Western movement, and the important papers of Boston and all the six New-England States have stool together as of old. The England States have stool together as of old. The England States have stool together as of old. The England States have stool together as of old. The England States have stool together movement, that the central exchange for the news of the world for the great papers of the East must be New-York and not Chicago. In this he has been world for the great papers of the East must be New-York City, with the single exception of The World.

"The rivalry thus precipitated has resulted in a steady, but very slow. White kidner and tunies."

warmly sustained by the great morning newspapers of New-York City, with the single exception of The World.

"The rivairy thus precipitated has resulted in a more thorough and full gleaning of the world's news for the newspapers which have stood by the original organization than has ever before been given in this country. As a matter of fact, despite the exploitations made by the Western Associated Press organization, the United Press to-day serves 440 newspapers in all parts of the Union, exclusive of Canada, while its rival does not lay claim to over one-half that number. The outcome of the matter will be the closer federation of the great rewspapers of the East, the plans for which are being carefully perfected. Time has simply justified the choice which The Republican has made. It remains in close association with all the Associated Press, whose members arrogate the old name of Associated Press in a manner that is utterfy misleading. The Republican has lost no news privileges—it remains with the papers which made up the original Associated Press in New-York City, and the service which it receives through the old alliance was never so satisfactory as it is to-day and has been ever since the break of the Western Association was precipitated.

"This paper has not been given to parading its internal affairs, but the above statement conveys the exact facts of the news situation at a time when truth needs to be kept in view."
